

Our purpose is to improve the quality of people's lives by adding value to the built environment by designing and delivering quality building and infrastructure projects. We achieve this by creating a values driven corporate culture which emphasises professionalism, client focus, teamwork, and above all, enjoyment.

We work with good clients on great projects, creating value for all involved. We measure our performance based on client outcomes, continually striving to add the maximum value at every stage of the project.

Since 1988, McVeigh Consultants has been providing value-adding services to the development industry throughout Queensland, NSW and Northern Territory. Our team of over 30 includes civil engineers, structural engineers, architects, development managers, project managers, technical and support staff.

McVeigh Consultants provides integrated civil, structural, architectural, development and project management services.

Our integrated approach means that we are able to deliver a higher quality of professional services in a shorter time and for lower cost, whatever the nature or size of the project.

Whether working with an integrated McVeigh team, or with an external team of consultants, we have the flexibility to ensure that the right people are involved at the right time resulting in the delivery of faster, cheaper and better quality engineering and architectural outcomes for our clients.

Better Quality – civil, structural, architectural and project management experts work together for a robust solution.

Faster – working together reduces overall timeline and eliminates inefficiencies between disciplines.

At McVeigh, we pride ourselves on living our shared values, which provide the foundation for our corporate culture.

We enjoy the work we do.

We work together as a team.

We work with good clients on great projects.

We strive to create value for all - ourselves, our business and our clients.

We want to work with people who share these values and therefore take selecting new team members very seriously.

We look for skills and experience, but above all shared values. We invest heavily in training and developing our people in technical as well as personal and leadership capabilities.

"I have found McVeigh Consultants to be a young, energetic boutique consultancy that provides an environment which is unique to any I have worked in over the past 15 years. The philosophy of collaboration and teamwork is deeply embedded in the company culture and reflects the European method of delivering architecture and engineering as an integrated design solution (ie. Santiago Calatrava and Le Corbusier, the most celebrated of the engineer / architects), which improves the design outcomes for our Clients, both in terms of quality, cost and time.

The team here at McVeigh has a flat organisational chart, and there are no glass ceilings in terms of professional and career development. Being a smaller practise, our employees are exposed to all phases of project work, from assisting with business development, through to project delivery and financial management of projects.

We work out of a wonderful open plan warehouse office, with ergonomic chairs and low partition height workspaces that encourages cross-discipline discussion.

In terms of charting a course for your future, our company values and your imagination are the only limitations."

Nick Muslin - Snr Associate Architect & Team Leader

"Working with McVeigh Consultants I've had the opportunity to combine hands on experience in a motivated and friendly work environment while still having the flexibility, time and support to complete my university degree. The integration of Architects and Engineers as well as McVeigh's interactive team environment has given me the opportunity to access a wide range of industry knowledge and gain valuable experience and understanding in multiple areas of the design process and communication."

Jessica Ellis - McVeigh Intern

Every day at McVeigh presents fresh challenges and opportunities for career advancement at whatever level of responsibility you desire. The broad range of experience I've gained at McVeigh means that I was able to gain my CPEng & RPEQ accreditation in just over 3 years after graduation as an Engineer. I've really enjoyed the interaction with other disciplines within the firm and have gained a much greater understanding of design issues from their perspectives. I feel this experience is giving me a much more well-rounded professional grounding than I would get elsewhere.

Vince Williams - Snr Structural Engineer & Team Leader

"McVeigh is an organisation which allows young, enthusiastic graduates a chance to be completely immersed in Projects, during each stage of the design and construction phase. My brief time with the company has given me valuable experience in almost every facet of project work, allowing me to develop in my career and gain confidence within my profession. McVeigh fosters a pro-active and solution focussed environment within the workplace, empowering people to "own" the work they do and drive for positive results.

If you are looking to fast-track your post-graduate industry experience, McVeigh can provide you with an avenue for it. Join us, and become part of a growing team of "integrated" built environment professionals."
